Students Attend Youth Conference

Five students and two guidance counselors from Appomattox County schools attended the Sub-Region II, 1970 White House Conference on Youth held at Longwood College on December 3, 1969. Those attending from Carver Price High School were Doris Hix, grade 11, and Nathan Snell grade 9. Those attending from Appomattox High School were Karen Smith, 12th grade, Steve Lawson, 10th grade, and Mark Eggleston, 8th grade. Mrs. Harriet James and Mrs. Bolling Carter, Guidance Counselors, served as group leaders at the conference. Nine other counties and cities were in attendance.

The purpose of the conference was to assist in formulating national policies to guide youth and determine what to do in our own communities. These opinions and recommendations from the sub-regional meeting will be presented to the statewide conference in Richmond and the national conference to be held sometimes in 1970 in Washington D. C. The theme of the conference was Youth-Reality - Responsibility - Commitment.

Cancer Research Totals $298,232

Eight American Cancer Society research grants totaling $298,232 are currently in effect in Virginia, it was announced today by Dr. Lloyd B. Burk, Jr., of Arlington, president of the Society's Virginia Division.

Of these grants, four amounting to $118,225 have been awarded to the University of Virginia School of Medicine, Charlottesville, and four amounting to $180,007 to the Medical College of Virginia, Health Sciences Center, Virginia Commonwealth University, Richmond.

Two of the grants at the University of Virginia became effective December 1. Dr. Peter W. Holloway from the Department of Biochemistry received a two-year grant for $22,155 to study "Lipid Enzymes and Membrane Organization of Microsomes," a research project which relates to the study of normal and cancer cell membrances.

Dr. S. Morris Kupchan, who joined the University's Department of Chemistry in September, received a $29,500 grant to continue his study of "Chemistry of Tumor Inhibitors from Plant Sources". Dr. Kupchan formerly held an ACS research grant at the University of Wisconsin. His work involves the search for new anti - cancer agents among plants.

Another recent recipient of an ACS research grant is Dr. Gerald Goldstein from the University's Department of Internal Medicine. His grant for $29,045 was awarded in July to study "Human Serologic Responses to Burkitt Lymphoma." Also, a grant for $57,524 is being used at the University by Dr. William B. Looney to study "Nucleic Acid Synthesis in Mitochondria and Nuclei of Hepatocytes."

At the Medical College of Virginia the following research projects are currently underway: "Use of Lectins in the Study of Leukocyte Antigens" by Dr. Ali A. Hossain, $15,413 grant; "Characterization of Tumor Cell Membrances" by Dr. Seymour Bakerman, $86,465 grant; "Effects of Thyrocalcitonin and EDTA in Hypercalemic Disorders" by Dr. Herschel L. Esther, $63,239 grant; and "Genetic Studies with Cultured Somatic Cells" by Dr. Richard M. Cribbs $17,880 grant.

CC Is Accredited

1969, at its Annual Dallas, Texas the Assembly of the Association of Colleges ("Association") accredited Community Colleges. The Association of Colleges is the recognizing agency regional colleges and schools. The association directs and sponsors Florida and Texas. The Association is composed of the 11 Colleges, the 11 as a secondary Commission on Schools. The Colleges has as members the colleges and universities in the Southern Association among institutions holding association of Colleges and accreditation are their sister institutions within the United being quality educational

Study Report and the Report of the Visiting Committee, the College Delegate Assembly at the Association's Annual Meeting in Atlanta in December of 1968 granted the College "candidacy status," the second step up the ladder toward accreditation.

In the fall of 1968, the College staff and faculty undertook the task of preparing a more comprehensive Status Study Report. With the report as backbround material, a second Visiting Committee, this time composed of six members with Dr. J. J. Hayden, Jr., President of Perkinson Junior College, Perkinston, Miss., as Chairman spent three days at the College in the spring of 1969 studying in great detail the operation of the College and its progress toward its stated goals. As a result of this Status Study Report and the Report of the Visiting Committee, the College was asked to appear before the Committee on Admissions to Membership for Junior Colleges in Atlanta on October 13. Dr. Burnette, President of the College, was accompanied to this meeting by Mr. M. D. Reed, Acting Dean of Instruction, and Mr. Giles R. Slade, Dean of Financial and Administrative Services. Combined results of the Status Study Report, the Report of the Visiting Committee, and the appearance before the Committee on Admissions was the granting of "full accreditation and membership" by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools to Central Virginia Community College.

The Board, staff, faculty, and students of Central Virginia Community College are proud of this recognition given them by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. The College has been fortunate in obtaining this recognition in the minimum allowable time; however, since accreditation is not a gift but must be earned, Central Virginia Community College, as do all institutions of higher education, must continue to prove its right to be accredited.

Central Virginia Community College is only beginning. Regional accreditation is a major step in our early development. The College looks forward with great enthusiasm as it works toward providing the best in comprehensive community college education for the people of Central Virginia.

Junior Miss To Receive $500

Jackie Benington, America's Junior Miss for 1969, displays a portion of the U. S. Savings Bonds which will be awarded to participants in state Junior Miss Pageants around the country by Chevrolet, a national sponsor. Included are $1,500 in Savings Bonds to the top five state finalists and Junior Miss medallions to every girl who enters. The new state Junior Miss will receive a $500 bond and a three-piece matched set of luggage. The other four finalists will receive bonds ranging from $400 to $100 plus overnight cases. More than 70,000 high school senior girls compete each year for the title of America's Junior Miss. Winners from all 50 states will compete in Mobile, Ala., May 9 through 13, for Miss Benington's crown. The reigning America's Junior Miss, from Huntington Beach, Calif., is presently enrolled at Standord University in Palo Alto, Calif. She was chosen the nation's outstanding high school girl during the national pageant finals in Mobile last May. The Virginia state pageant will be held on January 31, 1970 in Roanoke.

Veterans Corner

Editor's Note: Below are authoritative answers by the Veterans Administration to some of the many current questions from former servicemen and their families. Further information on veterans benefits may be obtained at any VA office.

Q – In the event that both my wife and I should die – say in an automobile or air accident – what would the VA do about my G.I. insurance? My children are contingent beneficiaries but they are too young to handle their affairs.

A – The VA legal division would work with the court to appoint a guardian to handle this as well as any VA pension rights which the children might have. You may, if you wish, name another person such as a close relative to receive the insurance in trust for your children. This would avoid the expense of having a guardian appointed.

Q – I will be released from serviceths month. How soon must I begin training under the G.I. Bill?

A – A veteran released from active duty in which to take advantage of his entitlement under the G.I. Bill. It is advisable, however, to immediately apply to your nearest VA office for your Certificate of Eligibility to avoid delay should you decide to attend school or take on-the-job training.
